

Recommendation for Gustav Krowicki

Gustav has been with Valtech as an intern during the fall semester 2023 as part of the Creative and Advisory team.

His tasks have spanned various tasks within UX and UI, including, but not limited to; research, interviews, wireframing, design systems, production design and processes, and client presentations.

Gustav has mainly been working on Valtech's team engaged with Vestas as the main client, taking part in all the daily operations and rituals surrounding such a team.

He has acted as assistance to the lead profiles on UX and UI as well as running his own smaller delivery on part of the platform with sparring from a senior profile.

His main tools have been Figma and Miro, but he is well skilled in design tooling and very quick to learn.

He willingly takes on any task he is given, is good at taking directions and always asks questions, which is much appreciated. While he has a great attitude and work ethic, he is also good at expressing his needs for sparring, learning and his ambition for his own skills, something that makes him enjoyable to mentor and work with.

Gustav has been such a positive addition to the team, showing up at the office in Aarhus every day always social, interested in his colleagues and eagerly asking for and giving sparring to the rest of the team. He spreads so much cheer and is always ready to help out. His Friday bar quizzes and creative and inclusive ways of engaging all his colleagues in activities is widely appreciated across the office. Furthermore, he has proven himself very flexible, travelling to Valtech's office in Copenhagen on several occasions to take part in both client work as well as social activities, making him an integral part of the team across offices.

I have no doubt in recommending Gustav for any job within UX or UI and I believe I speak for the entire team at Valtech when I say that he has a great career ahead of him and would be an asset for any creative team, both with his craft and his personality.

Kind regards,

Helle Jensen, Experience Director, Valtech Nordics
